

CANYOU PRONOUNCE THE WORD 'AVIATOR'?

Do Not Be Too Sure; Lots of People Have Tried and Failed; Look It Up.

You may think you are able to pronounce the name of the new profession of air conquering properly, but so did the members of a fashionable house party recently, until the New Modern English Illustrated Dictionary set them right.

All except one member of the party asserted that the first 'a' is "short," when the right way is to make it "long." You probably did not know also that the word originally applied only to a flying machine, but is used now to designate the operator as well as his machine.

Can you pronounce, define and distinguish between the following few of the many terms you have heard used about your air auto shows?

limousine, garage, aerogram, dirigible, magnet, aerostat, aerostatist, aeronaut.

You might think some of these words mean the same thing, but there is a difference.

Get the New Modern English Illustrated Dictionary and see how wrong you are. These are but the easier terms of aero-auto talk. Be up-to-date; get a dictionary and learn them all.

Alfred W. Lawson, editor of "Aircraft," and Julian Chase, Ph.D., editor of "Motor," prepared this department of the dictionary.

THREE SEVERELY INJURED IN ACCIDENTS AT CHANDLER

Chandler, Ariz., June 14.—One man is at the point of death and two have broken legs as a result of three accidents that occurred within a mile of Chandler in one day.

Thomas Tooton, a wealthy farmer, was thrown from his buggy a mile north of Chandler when his horse became frightened at a passing train. He struck on his forehead and was unconscious till the next morning. It is believed that concussion of the brain resulted and his advanced age may prevent his recovery.

Armando Provencio, employed on a George C. Smith ranch, had both legs broken when the team he was driving to a hay rake ran away.

As a result of his own carelessness, Alton Padillo, another farm hand, had one leg broken. He was feeding a hand hay press and failed to get his leg out of the way of the plunger.

CLERKS WILL NOT WORK AFTER SEVEN

Give Notice That After Sunday They Will Quit at That Hour.

Union clerks in El Paso have decided to strike rather than work after 7 o'clock on evenings. They gave their notice today in the form of a letter to the public, declaring that hereafter they will not work later than 7 p. m. and that girl clerks will not work later than 6.

While this applies to all stores, it affects only those on Overland and South El Paso streets, and the lower part of the city, the larger stores now closing at six. The smaller stores keep open until nine and on Saturdays until 11. The girls are allowed to leave earlier than the men, however, even at the present time.

The notice of the clerks follows:

TO THE PUBLIC.

The International Union of Dry Goods Clerks, represented by the employees working at the dry goods stores of this city, wish to advise the consuming public that the clerks are willing to work Saturday nights until a later hour and that their demand for seven o'clock closing is only for week days.

We respectfully thank you in advance for any aid you may give us. International Union Dry Goods Clerks. El Paso, Texas, June 14, 1913.

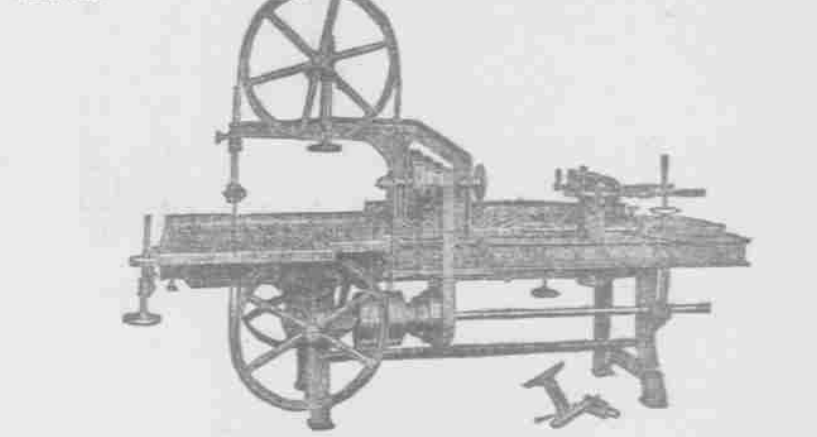

It is understood that the clerks are willing to work Saturday nights until a later hour and that their demand for seven o'clock closing is only for week days.

As we believe our action is based on reason and justice, we hope to obtain the moral aid of the consuming public, and to be favored by the kind deference of the El Pasoans in general, begging them that in the future they may do

RAY CELEBRATES FIRE ANNIVERSARY

New Town of Concrete Has Replaced One of Wooden Structures Which Was Destroyed.

Ray, Ariz., June 14.—Fits are dug and the animals ready to supply barbecue meat for the two days' celebration to be held at Ray today and Sunday. The date is the first anniversary of the fire that destroyed the town of Ray of last year.

Prior to the fire, Ray was a town of wooden structures, built haphazard. Today it is a town of concrete and brick buildings, with its exultation over the rebuilt town that the people are preparing to celebrate.

For dispatch and completeness, the Ray fire holds the record in Arizona. It took just 40 minutes to level the town after the fire broke out. In that short space of time, not a building was left standing; not a telegraph pole or hitching post. But while the light from the destroying flames still shone on the cactus covered mountains, the people determined to rebuild. It required nerve, for nothing was saved.

The people did well to get by with their lives. But the place has been rebuilt in just one year's time, and with its new buildings, its new streets and its new people, the people of Ray recount their fiery experience together. Besides the barbecued meats and trimmings that always go with mining camp banquets, there will be band music, speeches, fireworks, horse racing, foot racing, baseball, broncho busting, dancing, shooting, tournaments and numerous contests.

Special trains are bringing excursionists from different points in the Salt River valley. One train known as the "mines" started from Phoenix at 7 o'clock this morning to bring people of the capital city, Tempe, Mesa, Florence and Hayden. The surrounding towns including Globe, Miami, Superior and Winkelman are represented and people are here from Los Angeles and El Paso.

Ray is a revelation to those visiting it for the first time and those who have not been here since the fire. Better and more commodious hotels, larger merchandise stores, courthouses and theaters will be found. But what will make the deepest impression is the magnitude of the mining operations of the new town.

It is a fact not generally known that Ray has the second largest body of proven copper ore on the western continent. Since the acquisition of the Boston Consolidated property by the Utah Copper company, the latter has the largest body of porphyry ore, Ray second, the Inspiration at Miami third and China, New Mexico, fourth. Ray has 50,000,000 tons of ore blocked out and is now mining and milling ore at the rate of 2,000 tons a day. Three main working shafts are in operation, upward of 2,000 men are employed, and ore trains aggregating a mile in length are employed daily in hauling ore from the mine to the mill. In less than four years, over eight and a half million dollars has been expended in construction and equipment of the Ray property put in the producing and dividend paying class.

The up to date caving system will be seen exemplified at Ray. Louis Cates, an expert, is the manager in charge of the Ray mines. Visitors will observe a succession of 46 feet of Ray mountain and the ground around dropping gradually in precise accordance with the calculations of the engineers.

CHINA SENDS ARMY AGAINST TIBETANS

hated the devil half as much as they hate you, my trade would be ruined." Sir Edward is not a great orator, but he has a delightful way of making his point, and he is omitted when he is on his favorite subject of home rule and nothing but bitter denunciation falls on those who would "rear Ulster from the union."

Chinese Wage War on Tibetans. While China has been her great neighbors in the north and has been on the verge of bankruptcy, she has nevertheless found the time and means to continue to wage her war against the Tibetans of eastern Tibet, and this in face of the protests of Great Britain.

Early this year the Tibetans succeeded in driving back the Chinese forces, capturing their rifles and mountain guns, and established themselves in a strong position. The Chinese have, however, not been discouraged by this reverse, and a stronger army, with better guns, is advancing from Szechuan towards the Tibetan stronghold.

Great Britain's protest against this advance has been flouted by the Chinese government, and today England is demanding the withdrawal of all Chinese troops from Tibetan territory as the price of recognition of the republic. Scotland's fear, of course, is that a repudiation of China in possession of Tibet would be a menace to India.
